Japan's largest national park Daisetsuzan

Overview

Designated as Japan's National Park in 1934, Daisetsuzan holds a special place in the hearts of the people of Hokkaido. The park covers over 2,300 square kilometres (570,000 acres) and is home to a dramatic mountain range, giving Daisetsuzan the nickname "the Roof of Hokkaido".

On this itinerary we discover the best of the vast Daisetsuzan National Park. We traverse between the two prime peaks of Mt. Asahidake and Mt. Kurodake in its northern part, and we explore as far south as Lake Shikaribetsu. This tour will be perfect for hiking enthusiasts who also enjoy cultural exploration and water activities between hiking.
